

My name is Jimmy Meeks. I served 35 years as a police officer, five in Oklahoma and the remaining thirty in Texas. I am now privileged to work with Lt. Col. (Ret.) Dave Grossman in our Sheepdog Seminars. We have conducted these seminars all across the nation.

Colonel Grossman's portion of our seminar, The Bulletproof Mind, addresses the missing component of preparing police officers, and other sheepdogs, mentally for violent confrontation. Quoting Colonel Grossman, "We don't really care what brand of firearm you've got in your hand; it's the software in your head and heart that matters."

You can see a trailer of Colonel Grossman's training courtesy of the U.S. Concealed Carry Association at:
www.usconcealedcarry.com/bulletproof-mind/

I owe a great deal to the law enforcement community. I now want to "pay it forward" and help my fellow officers stay safe—and alive. Your help in enabling them to attend this important training is greatly appreciated.

Keeping our officers safe...

In the last two years, police have come under attack in many ways. Unfortunately, these attacks have sometimes resulted in their death. The Bullet Proof Mind Seminar is designed to assist the officer in enhancing his skills of caution that he might exercise greater care and safety in the course of his job. And all with the goal of being able to go home alive at the end of the shift.

"I've been a certified law-enforcement officer for over 25 years...this has by far been some of the best training I've had..." - Colorado Police Officer

Inspiring stories from two officers who know the importance of The Bulletproof Mind:

SGT HOUSTON GASS

Sgt Gass responded to a domestic violence call in January of 2015. He was shot in the face with a shotgun as he and his fellow officers searched for the suspect. Sgt. Gass continues to defy the odds by pushing forward toward full recovery – in spite of still having over 20 pellets from the blast in his face.

OFFICER MATT PEARCE

Ft. Worth, Texas Officer Matt Pearce was ambushed by a would-be killer in March of 2016. He was shot 7 times. Lessons from the Bulletproof mentality sustained him, and he, like Sgt Gass, defies the odds as he makes his way toward recovery (anxious to return to the streets!). He was recently released from the hospital. His story will more than inspire you.

You can make a difference by sponsoring a law enforcement officer!

The Bulletproof Mind Message has assisted officers across the nation. And many police officers will attest to this fact. Your sponsorship is needed to help cover the expenses of the seminar, so officers everywhere can attend this seminar at no cost. Training budgets have suffered great cuts in departments across the nation. If this training is free of charge, the door will open for law enforcement officers everywhere to be able to attend.

Your help is deeply needed and appreciated! Simply mail a check to Sheepdog Seminars at PO BOX 724, Hurst, Texas 76054 or donate any amount online at www.bulletproofseminar.com.