Additional Information

- Once on the elevated platform children can slide down a wave slide, which offers children a fun way off of the play structure. A single drum found on the ground level of this play structure offers opportunities for on-ground and hands-on play, and it also makes the Port Liberty play structure ADA compliant. A line roof covers part of the structure, providing shade and protection from the sun to children playing on this play structure during sunny days. Children will love the freedom they have while roaming around and playing on this play structure.
