

This grant is difficult for those that have experience writing grants, let alone some volunteers that have never applied for one in the past. That said, I feel the website itself is daunting and cumbersome to navigate and use. Opening up the grant requirements would also bring up new opportunities for clubs. Since the funds are acquired via club members, having the funds more open to accomplish the programs they want to do. Overall this process will be the last time I apply for this grant in its current format, as there are much less restrictive, and easier accessed local grants available to use.
