

ECOMAYA

Like our brand name, we try to be friendly to the environment (ECO) as well and honor our culture (MAYA) in Guatemala.

Our “kangaroo” bag (cross body/fanny pack) captures the vibrant essence of Guatemala, each stitch is a testament to resilience and skill of our women: artisan Mayan and today’s modern university students.

- Made with Recycled Authentic Fabric called huipiles. Mayan women weave these by hand, each one tells an ancestral story of their community
- Designed and Put Together with passion and skill by empowered Guatemalan university women, strengthening their economic independence.
- Comfortable and Functional Design: The cross body/fanny pack offers comfort and practicality, keeping your belongings close while you explore the world hands-free.

By purchasing this bag you are supporting sustainability, free trade and the preservation of Guatemalan craft traditions. Take with you more than just a bag. It carries with it the strength of women who fight for their autonomy and the cultural richness that resonates in each thread. Every time you wear this fanny pack, you embrace the history of Guatemala and contribute to the empowerment of the hands that created it.
