

Helps in early rehabilitation as patients does not have to see a deformed breast

Patient feels 'complete' and confident in dealing with the disease

Survivors say the procedures help to get on with life within weeks

Limitations

Adjusting to an altered body image after breast reconstruction can be a long process A patient's expectation may never match with the end results of the surgery Patients need to be carefully chosen as not everyone is fit to undergo the procedure Surgeon should choose the patient only after meticulous radiological and clinical assessment Bad cosmetic outcome like wrongly placed incision, scar contractures, etc have been seen in some patients Just about 10 surgeons in India are trained to perform oncoplastic breast conservation surgery
